

Posted on Thu, Jul. 15, 2010

Pretty Peacock Stands Apart From Flock

Nancy Cooper
Coconut Grove Voice

Promus peacock sculpture takes up residence at the Coconut Grove Hampton Inn.

Many Grove residents and visitors have seen the colorful flock of peacock sculptures on the streets of downtown Coconut Grove, but the one called Promus roosts off the beaten path.

Sponsored by the Hampton Inn, Promus was painted by Miami-born artist, Andrea Ruggeri. After studying in London and living abroad, Ruggeri is back in Miami where she's known for her trompe l'oeil murals and decorative artworks.

If you're enjoying the peacocks, be sure to get a look at Promus. He welcomes travelers to the Hampton Inn while offering them a clue to the character of this place we call The Grove.

© 2010 Miami Herald Media Company. All Rights Reserved.
<http://www.miamiherald.com>